Alberta Hotel Office Space

Building Operating Model

Alberta Hotel currently operates as a shared services community hub model.

In this model, tenants have their own private office space; however, washrooms and other amenities are shared with tenants on the floor and, in some cases, in the building. Amenities include access to various boardrooms, terraces and performance spaces without being charged booking fees.

Rigoletto's restaurant is located on the main floor on Jasper Ave.

Ideal Tenants

The landlord and primary tenant (CKUA) is open to expressions of interest from all prospective tenants. CKUA is particularly interested in recruiting non-profits and cultural/creative organizations that value being co-located with like-minded businesses. The ideal tenant group sees Alberta Hotel as more than funky office space; it is a place for community building by leveraging its many assets to invite the community in.

There is an ample supply of desks and some computer hardware that make the spaces nearly move-in ready.

Other Amenities

Alberta Hotel works with a property manager, with the bonus of having CKUA's engineering and facilities team that can handle most day-to-day repairs and issues on-site.

Given CKUA's access to various technologies and skill sets as part of our daily operations, tenants can access in-house internet, shared printing, and other business support services at equal or better than market rates.

There is a small workout facility with lockers and showers.

There is a small indoor bike lock-up.

Heated indoor parking is available next door at Canada Place at City of Edmonton parking rates. The LRT is one block away.
